Invest in Your Career and Earn College Credit for Corporate Training

Are you interested in taking your professional skills and training to the next level? As part of US Bancorp's agreement with DeVry University and its Keller Graduate School of Management, you may be able to earn college credit for eligible training courses.

If you have been thinking about using previous corporate training and applying it to an undergraduate degree program, DeVry University can help. If you have previous qualifying college credit you may also be able to apply these credits toward a degree program. You can also pursue a certificate or degree from the Keller Graduate School of Management. This is your opportunity to develop the skills and knowledge that can prepare you to be more successful in your career.
